PHYSICS AT LHC 2010

7 - 12 June 2010

DESY, Hamburg

Hamburg

Monday, 07 June, 2010

We take a closer look at the Rickmer Rickmers, a sailing ship (three masted bark), permanently moored as a museum ship, look along the Landungsbrücken and the old Elb-tunnel, an industrial relict (and still in use), of the early 20th century.

Entrance fee: 3.00 euro

If the tide allows, we go on a harbour tour and see the channels of the warehouse district (Speicherstadt).

Fee: 12.00 euro

Meeting point with Steffi: 10:00 at the registration desk

Lüneburg

Tuesday, 08 June, 2010

Our trip to Lüneburg is a day trip. It is 45 km south-east of Hamburg and the regional train takes us to one of the best preserved historical cities of northern Germany.

An English speaking tour guide shows us through town.

After the walking tour, we explore the city as we like, rest as we like (there are nice cafes and restaurants around), and in the afternoon the train takes us back to Hamburg.

Meeting point with Steffi: 09:00 at the registration desk

The cost of the trip depends on the size of the group:

For a group of 5 persons it is 17.20 euro p.p.

for 10 persons it is 11.40 euro p.p. The more the better!

Blankenese

Friday, 11 June, 2010

58 steps, alleyways and paths with 4800 stairs lead through the famous staircase quarter called Blankenese, which is always worth a tour.

Every visitor will be rewarded with breathtaking views of the Elbe River, the port and vicinity.

This old fishermen's and pirates' village attracted many rich merchants and shipowners in the 19th century. Today, it is still a thriving quarter where many prominent people live.

Afterwards, we lunch together at Sagebiehls Fährhaus, a traditional Hamburg restaurant on top of the hill.

Meeting point: registration desk at 10:00 with Steffi.
